Water ledger

Blockchain recap

Blockchains store data

Blockchains are an append only repository

Blockchains replicate data to all participants

Data can't be double spent, like your favourite MP3

Why is this important?

Irrigators have been accused of stealing water from the Murray River system -- and bureaucrats stand accused of standing by and doing nothing.

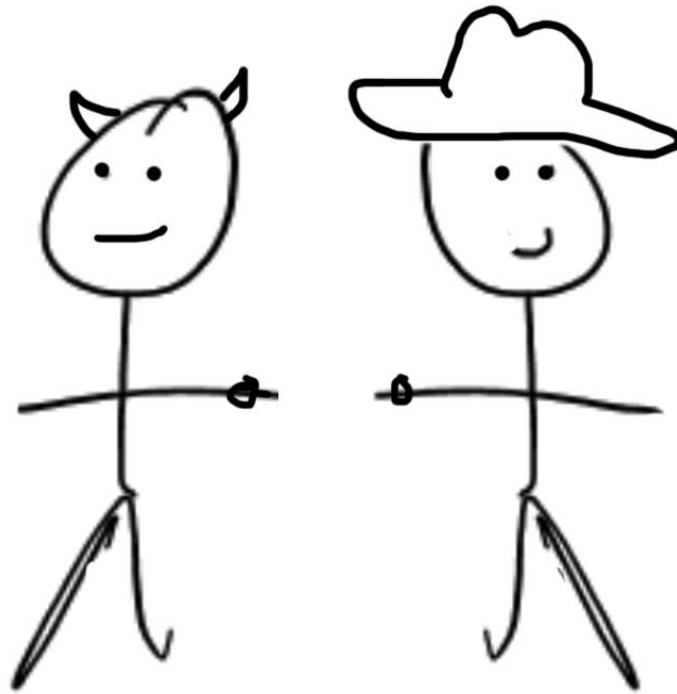

Darriea Turley, the mayor of Broken Hill (the large NSW outback town which lies west of the Darling but depends largely on its water): "We're outraged, we suspected it, but every time we raised it every politician would push back on us."

Australian Conservation Foundation Campaigns Director Dr Paul Sinclair: "These are serious allegations of extraordinary abuse of the Murray Darling Plan. There must be an ICAC investigation".

Etc, etc..

Bla, bla, bla..

Classic finger pointing

Noone owns the information

The rules are coded into the blockchain
